LOOKIN' AT THE GROVE

by John A. Van Gilse

Wednesday afternoon and we have just returned from a very beautiful funeral — a funeral of a man who Lemon Grove loved and respected — Mr. George Best White.

George White had many friends. Few, if any, ever disliked George. Somehow, I always thought of George as a sort of Lemon Grove "Will Rogers," a man whose judgement was respected by his fellow men. Many has been the time that George would take me aside and tell me something in his own way that would get me to thinking, much much better than I thought before.

We credit Dr. Gilbert Chasse with the best statement of George White when he said: "George White will be missed by the entire community, he lent tone to this town."

Yes, Dr. Chasse, George lent tone to this fair village of ours. He was known from one end of this county to the other. He was so highly regarded by the board of supervisors that they stopped important county business for a brief spell in silent tribute to our George. This tribute isn't paid many, but George earned the respect of the supervisors through his many years of making San Diego county a better place in which to live.

Reverend Dan Apra stated in his service that George White had always reminded him of the famous poem, "The House by the Side of the Road", especially as it states, "Let me live by the side of the road, and be a friend to man."

Lemon Grove, you will miss George White. God bless his family.

Insofar as George is concerned, I'll bet he'll have things pretty much in line for the rest of us by the time we get there. He'll have the chamber of commerce moving along, the highways will be wide and beautiful, the business men will meet once a week to discuss their many problems, and he might even be a judge, dispensing wholesome justice, just like he did here in Lemon Grove.

Believe me, George, we loved you. Smooth sailing fellow and we know you'll be happy.

New Lumber Man

Mr. Don Randolph, who is now with the Ward and McGuire Lumber Company at Massachusetts and Broadway, has taken his position with them after being with the South Bay Lumber Company of Chula Vista for two years. He graduated from the Lumberman's School at U.S.C. in 1948.

PARTICIPATED IN ROSE BOWL MANEUVERS

Guy Winton Jr., who was home from U. C. at Berkeley for the holidays, went to Los Angeles Thursday to practice for Rose Bowl maneuvers.

Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Winton and Roy and Kay Anne drove to Pasadena to see the Parade on New Years Day.

Mr. Winton and Roy attended the Rose Bowl game.

A good character is, in all cases the fruit of personal exertion.

C of C Stresses Cooperation in New Program

Ted Haaf, president of the Lemon Grove chamber of commerce, this week called on members for greater cooperation in a letter written on behalf of the new officers and directors.

In the message, the new president called for an expression of wishes from the members to help the directors plan their program for the year.

Hint of departure of one open meeting each year custom was given by the suggestion that members write in their desires regarding monthly meetings, and if so, whether it be entirely business, part business and part social, or an occasional social meeting.

It was stressed that that the majority opinion, whether it be regarding meetings, or regarding some project, would be followed by the new chamber.

Members willing and able to devote some time to working on committees were also urged to contact the chamber.

President Haaf outlined several objectives that the chamber will constantly strive for. Among these were: banking facilities, fire protection, better roads and road service, traffic lights and control at dangerous corners, street lights for those areas desiring them and a good community center.

He also stressed that the things for community betterment which might be obtained without increasing the tax rate should be kept uppermost in mind.

New Meeting Spot For Heights Civic Organization

The Bray Variety Store in the 1800 block on Englewood Drive, expects to be in operation very soon, the Monterey Heights Civic organization reports this week.

The organization, which has been holding monthly meetings in the store space, will hold the January meeting in the garage of the Quintero residence at 7942 Nichals, Thursday January 13, at 7:30 p. m.

Now that the holiday season is past, the meeting is expected to be devoted to new items of civic concern, or completing unfinished business.

Members are urged to start the new year by attending every meeting, and by bringing along a new member.

President L. E. Leech states, "Every resident who has children should help now to plan for the needs of the community in the welfare and development of the children before they become teen-agers. There are several hundred children in the Heights, of grade school age. Before many years these will become young men and women. It is the duty of the community to provide the right atmosphere and protection for these growing children."

"What is your share in this responsibility? Bring your ideas and help to the meetings."

WRITES OF CHRISTMAS PARTY

Mrs. Jack McCurdy, formerly Miss Jaunita Lowry, who is in Japan with her husband, a radio man with the army of occupation, writes that a Christmas party was held there for 100 Japanese children. She stated that the gifts and candy and tree were a treat that these children would not soon forget.

Jean Rattelle Appointed Justice Of Peace Here

The board of supervisors Monday appointed Jean D. Rattelle Justice of the Peace of Homeland Township, succeeding Mr. George Best White who died Sunday morning.

Mr. Rattelle resides at 7905 Lincoln Avenue Lemon Grove, and practises law on University Aveue North Park.

His term of office will expire January 1, 1951 or after the general election of that year according to the county council's office.

Special Services For Cornerstone Laying Sunday

The Lemon Grove Community Congregational Church is planning an important service Sunday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock, when they will lay the cornerstone for their new building on Main Street.

The service is to open with selections from the church choir. Rev. John Wylie of the Misssion Hills Congregational Church will read the scripture and offer the prayer of dedication, with Rev. Dan Apra placing the cornerstone. Rev. Ralph C. Waddell, former pastor of the church, is scheduled to deliver the main address.

All other Congregational Church pastors of the county have also been invited to attend.

A metal box containing data on the cost of the building, who was present, and other details, will be placed inside the cornerstone for posterity.

Following the service, which will last about half an hour, the crowd will adjourn to the basement, where the ladies of the church plan to serve a light lunch.

A large attendance is expected at this important event in the history of the Lemon Grove Congregational Church.

School Faculty Will Receive Charter in C. T. A. Friday Eve.

The Lemon Grove School faculty, who are all members of the California Teachers' Association, and their president Mrs. Nancy Tuthill, plan to attend a dinner at Kissell House on El Cajon Boulevard Friday evening at 8:00 p. m.

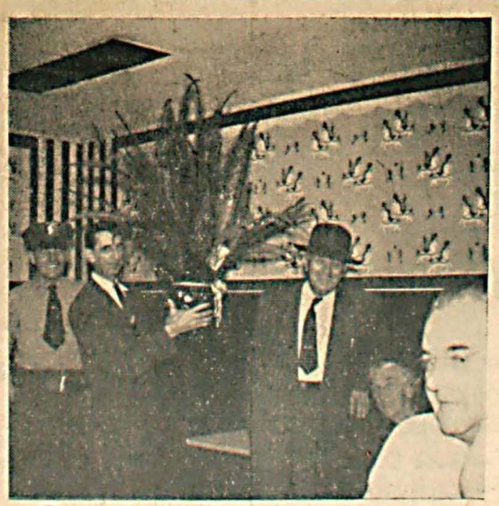
At this time they will receive their charter, which will be presented by Mr. Ted Bass, field secretary of the Southern California C. T. A. He will be the speaker of the evening.

This group organized last year, and it was largely through the efforts of Miss LaVancha Bauman, their first president, that 100 percent membership was attained at that time.

ENJOYED SNOW SPORTS IN YOSEMITE

A group of young men motored to Yosemite to enjoy the skiing and other snow sports over the New Years week end. Those to enjoy the trip were Elwin and Bob Walters, Kenneth and Phil Jolliff, Bud Close, Jack Casteel and Larry Johnson.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Carroll of the Lemon Grove candy factory left after Christmas for a three months vacation trip, visiting in Oklahoma.



Reprinted above from the Oct. 7, 1948 issue of the Review, is one of the latest pictures taken of George White. The occasion was a breakfast party given by local business men honoring Lemon Grove's first Justice of the peace.

George White Dies in Sleep Sunday Morning

Lemon Grove residents were shocked Sunday to learn of the sudden death of George B. White, Judge of Homeland Township, and prominent real estate man.

Mr. White was 68 years of age and passed away in his sleep of a cerebral hemorrhage early Sunday morning at his home at 7563 Central Avenue.

George B. White was born in Columbia, Missouri, and later moved to Montana.

He came to California in 1927, settling in Solana Beach, where he went into the real estate business. He became Justice of the Peace of Encinitas Township during his residence there.

In 1935 he was made director of the WPA for San Diego and Orange Counties, later moving to San Diego. He came to Lemon Grove in 1940.

During the war years he was director of the War Housing Administration in San Diego and also acted as personnel manager of the Parts Plant which operated at the Del Mar Fair Grounds.

After becoming a resident of Lemon Grove, he entered the real estate business, maintaining an office on Broadway.

He was president of the Chamber of Commerce during 1947 and always took an active part in that organization. He helped organize the Lemon Grove Business Men's Association, and was a director of the Lions Club.

He was instrumental in organizing Homeland Township, and was appointed its first Justice of the Peace in September, 1948.

Judge White greeted all his friends with a smile and a twinkle of his eye and was never too busy for a little chat. He will be greatly missed by all who knew him.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Maud E. White, a daughter, Mrs. Elza E. Sanders, and two grandchildren, all of Lemon Grove.

Funeral services were conducted Wednesday at the Ericson-Anderson Mortuary in La Mesa, by Rev. Dan Apra, of the local Congregational Church.

The funeral parlor was packed, indicating the esteem in which George White was held by his neighbors.

The Shopping Center paid their respects by closing their entire store during the services. Monday evening, a scheduled meeting of the board of directors of the Lemon Grove chamber of commerce was cancelled, and the regular Tuesday meeting of the Business Men's Association was cancelled.

Honorary pall bearers were: Ray Adlfinger, Jackson Ammons, V. J. Dorman, Chris Ferguson, Charles P. Good, Ted Haaf, Harry A. Heyser, D. J. Keller, Robert Lindley, J. Mulder, Tom Parsons, Percy J. Paxton, J. B. Pearce, A. F. Sonka, J. A. Van Gilse and Walter Williamson.

Donald and Robert Anderson, Fred Campbell and Carl Herder went duck hunting in Imperial Valley, Sunday.

LET'S DISCUSS IT

by Mrs. Agnes Whitlock

Hi, neighbor. Where are you from? Why did you come to California? Do you like it here? There must be some good reason why you have settled here. What is it?

Haven't you often wondered these things about people? Even though you don't like to ask too many questions how many people have you met that did not like to talk a little about the state they hail from. Or what they did or did not like about California.

I think you'll find in every state something that is the best, if for no other reason, because its from there.

Regardless of how much they like California, there is always something that is better back home.

Oh, yes, there are some native Californians. You find one every so often.

Do you know where your neighbors are from? You know it is quite possible to take a tour of the country and never leave your own community, or the comforts of your own home.

The atlas, geography and history books only tell a small part of the interesting things about a place. But take a person who has lived there. He can tell you the little intimate things that make a place actually live.

He can make little dots on the map become real and interesting to you, as though you had actually been there yourself.

As a general rule, even the story teller gets enthused and things that were common every day scenes then often become the focal points in his story now.

I thought it might be interesting to some of the people in our community. So next week, I'll have a few reports on the when, why, and wherefore of some of our citizens.

The Albert Denlingers enjoyed giving a New Years Day dinner Saturday for Miss Doris Campbell of La Crescenta, Miss Kitty Smith of San Diego, Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Dawson of El Cajon, and Hank Fuller and Bob Morse of the U. S. Naval Training Station.

P. T. A. News

Mrs. R. E. Hoover, Lemon Grove P. T. A. Welfare Chairman and her co-chairman Mrs. T. S. Brent, prepared and delivered the Christmas baskets the P. T. A. gives annually to some needy families.

The P. T. A. was also responsible for the white robes with the red ties, worn this year by the singers at the big Lemon Grove Christmas party. Mrs. W. L. Bartholomew, Mrs. Kenneth Vaugn and Mrs. Byron Netzley made the robes and Mrs. Guy Winton made the red ties.

The next Lemon Grove P.T.A. Board meeting will be held at Mrs. Guy Winton's home, 2065 ElDora, Monterey Heights, on Thursday, January 13, at 12:30.

The Lemon Grove P.T.A. project for toys and play houses for the kindergartens at the Lemon Grove School was taken over by the kindergarten room mothers with Mrs. Leah Curley as chairman and Mrs. V. Page, Mrs. Byron Netzley, Mrs. B. E. Heitzman, Mrs. C. E. Rank, Mrs. E. Wright and Mrs. C. J. Hardy as her committee.

Besides a new radio pronograph and records, they collected and repaired toys including tricycles, buggies, dolls, garden tools etc. Mr. E. Green of the "Fum-O-Vac" sterilized all the toys free. With the help of the fathers they built three demountable blue and white play houses equipped with make - believe sinks, stoves and other furniture.

The record players were donated by Mr. Kenneth Dennstedt and Mr. and Mrs. James Temples.

The entire project was undertaken and handled in such a commendable manner that the Lemon Grove P.T.A. is very proud of its kindergarten room mothers.

AVOCADO YIELDS AND SOIL TYPE

At the next meeting of the Avocado Department, Ambrose DeBard of Vista will discuss avocado production as it relates to the soil types in inland San Diego County. The meeting will be held at Escondido High School, Monday, January 10, at 7:30 p. m.

Elwood Trask of Carlsbad, chairman of the group, invites all growers to attend. The institute committee will report on final plans and program for the forthcoming 3rd Annual Avocado Institute for San Diego County, to be held during February in Escondido. Assistant Farm Advisor Joe Coony will present results of a recent survey on costs of establishing a young avocado orchard.

POULTRYMEN TO DISCUSS BROODING

Problems of brooding and rearing chicks will be the subject of the next farm bureau poultry meeting to be held on Tuesday, January 11, 1949, at 8:00 p. m. at the Grossmont High School, according to R. H. Adolph, assistant farm advisor.

Adolph points out that this meeting is very important and timely to fryer growers and commercial egg producers since many growers are running into difficulty where continuous brooding is practiced.

B. A. Becker, a former poultry grower and now a hatcheryman, Jim Lyon of the Lyon Rural Electric Company, and R. H. Adolph, poultry specialist of San Diego County, will present talks on brooding and will form a panel to answer any questions which growers may have.

"EASY DOES IT"

WHEN you polish wood, rub until all the polish is absorbed or the wood will have a cloudy appearance that will result in its picking up dust readily. When wood is properly polished, a clean, dry finger will leave no trace.

To prevent the discoloring, loosening and rotting of bathroom floors, install a toilet tank tray that fits easily and catches the moisture from the toilet tank. This is piped into the bowl through a small hose. Made of steel with baked-on enamel finish, the installation of the tray is simple and effective.

To remove fingerprints around doorknobs and other painted woodwork without wearing the paint, dip a damp cloth in whiting and rub gently over soiled places. Rinse off with a clean cloth.

RECIPE

Almond Bars

4 eggs, beaten thoroughly
1 pound brown sugar
¼ pound ground almonds
¼ pound citron, sliced thin
1 cup flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
½ teaspoon cinnamon
½ teaspoon allspice

Add almonds, citron and brown sugar to eggs and mix thoroughly. Add remaining ingredients and place in a greased oblong pan. Bake in a moderate (375° F.) oven for 25-30 minutes or until light brown. Cool and ice with 1 cup powdered sugar mixed with ½ teaspoon vanilla extract and enough milk to moisten. Cut into bars.

Chamois which becomes stiff after use can be partially restored by washing in lukewarm suds and rinsed in lukewarm water to which one teaspoon of olive oil has been added.

Ammonia is a good cleaner for using on kitchen and bathroom floors. It helps loosen the dirt and acts also as a disinfectant.

When using starch on dark fabrics, it's wise to color the starch with bluing or tinting or strong tea so there will be no white film on the material when you finish.

To fix cracks in old plank floors, fill in the crack with strips of hardwood running the length of the crack. Finish to match the floor.

FORMER RESIDENTS BACK FOR VISIT

Mr. and Mrs. George Simpson, former residents of Lemon Grove, are enjoying a two weeks visit with their children and grandchildren in Spring Valley and San Diego.

Old timers will remember Mr. Simpson as a building contractor who erected many homes here. Mrs. (Annie) Simpson was a charter member of the Forward Club and remained active as long as they resided in Lemon Grove.

It was twenty-five years ago that Mr. and Mrs. Simpson brought their five children to Lemon Grove and settled in a home on Crane Street, the only other house on the street at that time being occupied by Mr. H. H. Hunter and family.

During recent years, Mr. and Mrs. Simpson have been resident-members of International Theosophical Headquarters, formerly at Point Loma and now at Covina, California.

Mr. Simpson is director of field work in the Western area and has recently completed a lecture tour in San Francisco. During the last few years many Theosophical Study Groups have been organized in Los Angeles under his direction.

While in San Diego, Mr. Simpson will give a series of lectures at lodges and study groups in the vicinity.

HONORED SON'S TENTH BIRTHDAY

Mr. and Mrs. Ted Magnuson of Massachusetts Avenue celebrated the tenth birthday of their son Kjartan, New Years Day with a theatre party. Guests were Mary and Donald Wilhite of San Diego, Dannie O'Brian of Spring Valley, Linda Magnuson and Gordon Hedberg. Cake and ice cream were enjoyed by the guests, who brought many gifts to the honoree.

Mrs. John Kish's troop of Girl Scouts made sandwich trays for their mothers as Christmas gifts.

Tuesday of this week they started work on their "Star Finder" badge again. They are practicing songs to sing at the Fox Theatre Saturday, when Girl Scouts gather there from all over the county.

Mrs. McIntosh's group of girls are making mittens and earning their sewing badges. They made lace trimmed sachets for their mothers for Christmas.

This group decided that instead of paying dues each week during January, the girls will bring a can of fruit each week. The cans will be packed and sent to a girl in Holland and also a girl in France, as they did last year.

Charles Betz New Pastor Adventist Church Here

Pastor James Scully, minister of the Lemon Grove and La Mesa Seventh Day Adventist churches for the past two and a half years, has accepted the pastorate of the Escondido church; and Pastor Charles H. Betz of Escondido has assumed responsibilities here, according to word received today from R. M. Rosengren, chairman of the board of elders for the local congregation.

Pastor Betz, who is in charge of the Lemon Grove, La Mesa and Delzura churches, was minister of the Escondido Seventh Day Adventist Church when he accepted the appointment to Lemon Grove. Since coming to the Southeastern California Conference, pastor Betz has also been assistant pastor at Costa Mesa, and San Bernardino, and was pastor at Escondido for two and a half years.

"It is with pleasure that we assume our responsibilities in the Lemon Grove and La Mesa area. We anticipate a pleasant and fruitful ministry. Men and women everywhere are searching for peace of mind, hope for the future, and the comfort and peace that the glorious Gospel of Christ alone can impart.

"Americas supreme need today is not more technical knowledge, but a recrudescence of the spirit. We need to rededicate ourselves anew to the basic principles which have made this country great. These I believe to be a knowledge and belief in the Bible as the inspired Word of God, the practice of prayer, and a determination to obey the voice of God. By the Grace of God we are resolved to lift high the banner of Christ's saving grace, and to share the good news of His coming kingdom," declared Pastor Betz.

Hans Ahrensberg and sons, Roy, Dannie and Donnie of Washington Street drove to Cuyamaca, Sunday to enjoy a day in the snow.

A Talk With Parents

by L. E. McGee

Business people, with whom I have discussed the present generation of children and teen-agers, have evidenced widely varied opinions. One recently told me that he believed them to be the best in history; another said they were the worst; still a third said they are about the same.

The last man was absolutely right. No guesses or opinions, I just KNOW he was right. The only change has been in adults, not in children. The modern free-thinking adult has less inhibitions than his parents or grandparents had. He has observed the wave of publicity advocating the finding of the cause of misbehavior, and removing that cause.

This theory has been used by juvenile authorities, school teachers and officials for approximately 20 years. The results? More delinquency in proportion to population than at any other time in history and a constant increase during every one of those twenty years. Now how about it? Does the theory deserve any further tests? Many of my friends join me in saying that the theory is stupid and has proven itself impractical if not disastrous. Let us halt any further experiments on our children. Let us go back to the old method as prescribed in the Bible, the theory of all civil laws, all social rules, and as proven by the kind of adults that were brought up under that theory.

The theory is simple; reward for good conduct, and pain and punishment for unacceptable conduct. Our world exists on that principle. Why not train children to expect it when they reach maturity?

I'm sick to death of these theorists who wish to try out their self-expression ideas on my child. I have another who will enter school next year.I hope the state will encourage schools to get back to a point where teachers can and will demand and get respect and obedience.I hope they will be instructed to teach reading, writing, arithmetic, history, and geography. I hope they will send home report cards which will allow me to compare my child's progress with his past performance, and with the progress of other children in his class. I know that he will be compared with others as an adult, and I want him to be prepared for that comparison.

Please understand that I am not criticising the local schools or school officials. I honestly believe we have the very best officials obtainable. This problem goes much deeper than the local personell. I know that most of the officials and teachers and some of the travelling officers agree in principle or at least practise it at home. What amazes me is the fact that they use corporal punishment at home in dealing with their own children, and still do not approve of it in the schools in the handling of our children.

I have been criticized for my 'attack' on the local schools and school officials. This criticism is not from the officials themselves. I have no quarrel wth them. I know and admire them very much. My arguement is with the courts which condemn and convict a teacher for slapping some mother's darling who has driven the poor teacher to her wits end with his mischief. Next, I condemn a state law-making group which does not pass laws to protect a teacher in case of lawsuits. Lastly I condemn the California State Board of Education for a stupid, asinine, lackadaisical, unconsiousness of the true situation.

When students who have attended school in other states are advanced a grade almost automatically when entering school in our state, and demoted when they leave California to go to school in other states; when these same students compare schools in our state 100% unfavorably, even though the other states permit physical punishment, its time for someone to wake up and ask WHY? Or do you know why?

SHORT STORY

Tale Of A Mouse

By M. J. COLLINS

3-Minute Fiction

STAN JACKSON owned the service station beside the pine grove a few miles outside the town. It was a good location and Stan made a fair living. He was a happy-go-lucky sort and everyone liked him, but he had one great fault. He loved to talk. Once he got started it was hard to head him off. Mice were his pet subject at that moment, and he claimed if everyone started to catch them systematically, the country would be saved a million every year.

This was Saturday and he'd been busy all day, and so had the cash register.

"What's going on now?" Highway Patrolman Clancy asked as he stepped in. Stan looked up the corner where he was bent over fixing something.

"I'm trying to catch a mouse," he answered, "and having a time of it, too."

"Trying to save a million dollars, I'll bet." Clancy laughed.

"Listen, Stan," Clancy turned serious. "There've been a lot of service stations robbed lately. Don't leave too much cash around."

"Oh, they'd never bother with a place like this." Stan's mind wasn't on Clancy's warning. "Now if I could only catch that mouse." Clancy fled.

The next few hours were busy ones for Stan. The farmers, in town for the evening, were his main customers, but now they were gone and he could close.

Hardly had he settled down when there was a "snap."

"Ah," he cried. "I've got you this time!" Jumping to his feet, he rushed back to the corner. He pushed the box aside, but the mouse was gone, and so was the cheese. Perplexed, Stan scratched his head. This mouse had put it over him for almost a week.

"I'll get you yet!" he muttered shaking a fist.

THE CAR grinding to a stop woke him up. Hardly before he was out of the chair, the door opened and a man stepped in.

"Good evening." Stan said.

The man looked hard and grim. "Stand where you are!" The voice sent chills up and down Stan's spine. "Put up your hands."

An automatic's snout was pointed where Stan had always considered his heart was. Right now it was pounding in his mouth. His hands shot up with all possible speed. A flashy girl came in and stood beside the man.

"Wise guy," the man sneered. "Yeah, wise guy," the girl said.

Stan's eyes stole toward the cash register. There was almost $200 in it.

If Clancy were only here. Stan's ears were straining for the sound of the motorcycle.

"Here," the man said curtly, "hold the gun on him." She took

The man looked hard and grim.

it while he emptied the register.

The sight of his vanishing money made Stan see red.

"Don't try it, sap!" the woman said coldly, motioning him back.

A pair of small, beady eyes stared out of a hole in the wall. The mouse started to run across the floor. The girl screamed and, dropping the gun scrambled up on a chair.

Cursing, the man turned. All the fury in Stan's fist crashed into his face. He went crashing into the wall and slumped.

In the excitement the sound of the motorcycle had gone unnoticed. Clancy stepped inside, surveyed the scene and quietly asked. "What goes on?"

Stan sighed with relief. "You're just in time."

"I think so," Clancy said, dryly, taking the gun out of the shaking hand. "This might go off and damage someone . . . even you."

After the two had been taken away, Stan served Clancy coffee in the rear. Clancy asked. "How did you get the drop on them?"

"Well," Stan replied, "he handed the gun to the girl. Mi-gosh, wait!" he cried, rushing out front. In a few seconds he was back. "Look at this," he cried, holding up the trap. The mouse was pinned by the tail.

"Ah! Success!" Clancy chuckled. "The mouse proved my argument," Stan beamed. "It saved the country $200."

Incidents Bring Accidents

by Dr. Frank Weege, D. C.

Bill Humphrey came to town to attend to some of his obligations. The regular bills had to be paid, the last installment on his income tax was due, a few chickens had to be delivered, and then there was that Dexter affair which should have been straightened out before now.

About three months ago, in slushy weather, Bill, while on his way home, got off the road and landed in a ditch. Roy Dexter, passing by, noticed Bill's predicament and helped him get back on the roadbed. Not even waiting for a 'thank you', Roy was on his way home where he was eagerly awaited.

Shortly after this incident, Bill slaughtered a Duroc-Jersey porker and he figured that it would be the right thing to share his somewhat excessive meat supply with his friend, Roy. He drove down Church Street with only one thought in his mind, gratitude. He had said it to himsalf many times but by now, he was convinced that Roy really was a friend. He had not stopped at Roy's house for some time and would surely have missed the place had it not been for Mary, Roy's oldest daughter. Seeing her on the road in front of the house, he came to a sudden stop.

"Hello, Mary," came his friendly voice, "I nearly missed your place."

'Hello, Mr. Humphrey," said Mary, smilingly, "I bet you came to see Daddy; he hasn't come home yet."

Mary and her girl friend had just gotten home from school. Both girls, beside their books, carried a majorette baton, which they twirled expertly. After Bill had given his compliments to the girls, he took his package from the seat of the truck, and went into the house.

As usual with school girls, they had so much to talk about, the conversation seemed endless.

Suddenly, Mary pointed her baton down the road and shouted, "Mildred, look. Who is that coming this way?" In just a moment, she answered her own question, "Its tomato-faced Charley." Both girls looked toward the direction from which Charley approached, riding his favorite nag, Pluggy. As he trotted in front of the girls, he pulled his reins, and would have stopped on a dime, if there had been one there.

"Hello, Mary; hello, Mildred," he said somewhat authoritatively, "I saw you standing here, gabbing, so I came up to see if I could be the judge of the conteest."

"Never mind, smarty, answered Mary with some importance, "if that's all you went through your trouble for, then better keep on galloping your steed; we young ladies are perfectly able to find our own salvation. Unwantedly, Charley's horse made a complete left-handed turn and would have stepped on Mary's foot had she not gotten out of the way.

"Clumsy," she hollered, "be careful; why don't you walk if you don't know how to control a horse?"

'I'm very sorry, Mary," Charley said, apologetically, "I really didn't mean to do that."

If there were any hard feelings they disappeared right there and a new conversation ensued. They talked about Gieserle, the new German girl who couldn't speak English; Rose Marie, bringing lavender-colored sweet peas to the arithmetic teachr; about Genevieve's habit of wetting the bed and about Alphonso Campanelli who always talked about Italian spaghetti.

Charley, somewhat nauseated by the girls' tirade, tried to explain some of the new defensive football plays he had aquired that day and by so doing, almost fell off his nag Mildred, aggravated by Charley's interruptions, shouted, "Football, football? If it weren't for us girls pepping you fellows up at every game, there wouldn't be any football." She threw her baton high in the air and as it came down, it hit the horse right on the nose.

Not accustomed to such raw treatment, Pluggy reared on his hind legs and made a terrific jump for safer quarters. Charley, not anticipating such a move, was thrown off his mount, striking a rock and there he was, on the ground, unconscious. Many things, strange in this part of the country and stranger, still to Charley, had to be done for his safety and recuperation. But, by mere accident, everything worked out nicely, and within four months, Charley was able to attend classs again.

And now for the moral of the story:

Always play safe, no matter what the game,
Accidents injure, and often they maim;
Keep in your mind that most any day
Thoughtless endeavor may cause you dismay.
Always play safe, don't try to be smart,
Death is a gangster, don't give him a start;
Think ere you leap, consider your fate,
Stop, look, and listen before its too late.
